Translated by Paul Hindemith Poems of Heinrich Heine (1797-1856)

1. In the wonderfully beautiful month of May
When all the birds are singing,
So have I come to hear
Bursts from my own heart,
When all the buds are bursting open.

2. The chorus of the nightingales,
Many blooming flowers,
And my singing became joined with
The chords of the nightingales.

3. She herself—the source of all love--
Is the rose, the lily, the dove, the sun,
I love them all once in love's bliss,
She herself my own heart,

4. When I gaze into your eyes,
All my pain and woes vanishes,
Yet when I kiss your lips,
I am made wholly and entirely healthy.

5. Fine, pure—the one, the ONE!
I love only that which is small
Is the rose, the lily, dove, and sun
She herself my own love.

6. In the Rihme, in the holy stream
Is it mirrored in the waves -
With its great cathedral -
Up into the heights of the woods

7. From the savage pressure of pain.
And my heart wants to burst so strongly
That once my beloved sang,
Up into the heights of the woods

8. She who is my heart's whole love.
In a wretched dance dances
With trumpets blaring in;
There is a fluting and fiddling

9. Streams my flood of tears.
I awoke, and still
I dreamed you were still good to me.
I wept in my dream -

10. There is a ringing and roaring,
In the moon which soft and moon
A drumming and sounding of shawms
That lovely little angel.

11. I hear the dear song sounding
That once my beloved sang,
From the savage pressure of pain.
And my heart wants to burst so strongly

12. I saw, my dear, how truly miserable you are.
And saw the snake that bites your heart,
And saw the night in the room of your heart,
No beam falls into the night of your heart.

13. I will know that for a long time.
Love lost forever! I bear no grudge.
Altho'g'h you shone in diamond splendor,
No beam falls into the night of your heart.

14. I, however, wander silently.
The flowers are whispering and speaking,
And look at me sympathetically.
"Do not be angry with our sister,

15. You sad, pale man."

16. I awoke and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

17. Still howled down my cheeks.
I awoke, and my tears
I dreamed you lay in a grave.
I wept in my dream -

18. And if they knew my woe -
They would some down from their heights
And speak their consolation to me.
They would weep with me.

19. But all of them could not know this,
Only one knows my pain:
She herself has indeed torn,
Torn my heart in two.

20. Betterly for a long while.
I awoke, and still
I dreamed you were still good to me.
I wept in my dream -

21. Streams my flood of tears.
I awoke, and still
I dreamed you were still good to me.
I wept in my dream -

22. I awoke and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

23. I awoke, and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

24. I awoke, and still
I dreamed you were still good to me.
I wept in my dream -

25. Streams my flood of tears.
I awoke, and still
I dreamed you were still good to me.
I wept in my dream -

26. I awoke, and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

27. I awoke, and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

28. I awoke, and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.

I wept in my dream -

99. I awoke, and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

100. I awoke, and I cried
I dreamed you had abandoned me.
I wept in my dream -

And where green trees sing
Primeval melodies;
Where breezes sound secretly,
And birds warble,

And mist-figures rise
From the earth
And dance airy round-dances
In an odd chorus,

And blue sparks burn
On every leaf and twig,
And red lights run
In a mad, chaotic circle,

And loud springs break
Out of wild marble stone,
And in the streams--oddly--
Shine forth the reflections.

Ah! If I could enter there
And indulge my heart
And give up my agony
And be free and holy!

Ah! This is the land of bliss
That I see so often in a dream,
But when the morning sun comes,
It melts like mere froth.

16.

The old, angry songs,
The dreams angry and wicked--
Let us now bury them.
Fetch a large coffin.

In it will I lay many things,
But I will still not say quite what.
The coffin must be still larger
As the cask in Heidelberg.

And fetch a death bier
And planks firm and thick;
They must be still longer
Than the bridge to Mainz.

And fetch me, too, twelve giants;
They must be still stronger
Than that strong St. Christopher
In the Cathedral to Cologne on the Rhine.

They should carry the coffin away
And sink it down deep in the sea,
Since such a great coffin
Deserves a great grave.

Do you know why the coffin
Must be so large and heavy?
I sank with it my love
And my pain, deep within.

Allerseelen

Hermann von Gilm (1812-1864)
Translated by Emily Ezust

Place on the table the fragrant mignonettes,
Bring inside the last red asters,
and let us speak again of love,
as once we did in May.

Give me your hand, so that I can press it secretly;
and if someone sees us, it's all the same to me.
Just give me your sweet gaze,
as once you did in May.

Flowers adorn today each grave, sending off their fragrances;
one day in the year is free for the dead.
Come close to my heart, so that I can have you again,
as once I did in May.

Morgen

Robert Schumann
(1810-1856)

Morgen!
John Henry Mackay (1864-1933)
Translated by Emily Ezust

And tomorrow the sun will shine again, and on the path I will take,
it will unite us again, we happy ones,
upon this sun-breathing earth...

And to the shore, the wide shore with blue waves,
we will descend quietly and slowly;
we will look mutely into each other's eyes and the silence of happiness will settle upon us.

Dear Listener,

Thank you for coming to my senior recital. I started singing during my junior year of high school. The first time I sang in front of an audience was the most exhilarating experience of my life. I was hooked.

Thus, I came to Williams College already knowing that I wanted to sing, to sing opera professionally. I have already wet my feet in the opera world, performing in La Traviata, Don Pasquale, and Dido and Aeneas with Hubbard Hall Opera Theater as well as Le nozze di Figaro with The New Opera. I am especially excited to spend the next two years at Longy School of Music, where I will be pursuing a graduate degree in voice.

Richard Strauss I'd like to thank Keith & Robin for an amazing 4 years at Williams. I'd also like to thank my mom, dad, and brother, whose love & support are boundless. Thank you, once again, for coming, and I hope you enjoy the concert.

Sincerely,
Steve
